How a Husband Should Be Regarded. At a recent meeting of Sorosis, at which the subject of "Husbands" was discussed, Mrs. Herrick attributed the failure of marital happiness to girls being taught to expect too much happibess from marriage, and that love is its only essential by romances, poetry, songs and tradition. But, while not belittling tove, she claimed that respect based upon superior qualities; esteem for those attributes that would make the wife desire the husband as a friend if she could not have him for a husband; common sense, which teaches her that a faulty woman need not expect a perfect husband, and great patience-"that passion of noble souls"-are quite as essential elements in the domestic bliss.

She cautioned the wife against holding up her soul to her husband always with a thorn in it. Men cannot understand such a situation as that in which I was These lots front on Brighton Avenue, intangible griefs and unrest. She also placed by the rain of Thursday. I shall Acme and Wallace Sts. The con- Goods Delivered. one of the first lessons a wife has to learn is that her husband has a right to his own individuality, and that, while she can inspire him to greater achievement in a work for which he has a bias she cannot, as she may fondly dream, mold his character, and she wouldn't respect him if she could.

Girls should be taught that marriage is not the gateway of heaven, and that even at this Eden the angel stands with the flaming sword to turn back souls that seek an earthly paradise. A Pireproof Solution for Dresses. A chemist of Vienna has succeeded in discovering a composition which will make even the slight material of ballet dancers' dresses fireproof. The Prince of Lichtenstein gave this composition a first trial on the stage in his own palace in the presence of a numerous company. The rise of the curtain discovered two life sized dolls, dressed as ballet girls, to both of which a light was applied. One of the dolls was rapidly reduced to ashes, while the other, well saturated with the protective composition, escaped with a small hole in her dress -Pittsburg Dispatch.

Lord Lytton's Pet Poodle. Lord Lytton's favorite dog Dailing, a beautiful poodle, has been the means of bringing to justice a notorious thief who has long been wanted by the Paris police. Darling has been very disconsolate over the loss of his master, and has lately taken to vagabond ways highly inbecoming in so well bred an animal. One day he disappeared completely, and all Lady Lytton's efforts to find him proved unavailing. About a week afterward a dirty, disreputable looking dog, with long hair, cropped ears and a mere stump for a tail made his appearance at the British embassy and refused to be driven out Could this be the beautiful

The idea seemed almost ridiculous, but some one took the poor brute to Lady Lytton, who, in spite of his altered appearance, recognized in him her lost pet. The question was, Where had he been? And this was soon settled on examination of a strange collar around his neck, engraved upon which were the name and address of a man who has long made a profession of dog stealing. The imprudent thief, who seems to have taken a fancy to the dog and to have intended to keep him himself, actually succeeded in securing his own arrest, and he is now safely under lock and key. Cor.
